

Getting Comfortable With Video

by Able, December 2008

Getting Comfortable With Video from able parris on Vimeo.

Above is a video I made while working at home today. I touch on a few points that I'd like to stress here. One, video is easy. Two, video can be super cheap. You might even already have the tools needed to publish a similar video on your site! Three, it's not as scary as you might think. Just talk as if you were talking to one of your clients. If that means you need to have more of an "Oval Office" type of presentation than I do that's fine. I am sure it would be easy to arrange your backdrop to be a bit fancier than my breakfast nook.

- I mentioned Last.fm in the video. It's a great way to hear music. Add me as a friend if you use it!
- This month's newsletter, Video Just Got Easier
- Chris Butler's blog
- The coffee I mentioned is Kuta, but Dolok Sanngul is my favorite
- The camera I use is a Nikon Coolpix P5100
- I use Vimeo to publish my videos, but if you are publishing videos for a commercial business, you will want to check out others. Vimeo is for personal use only. I also mentioned Viddler, which is great!
